Donald Pell Gardens Receives Gold Award in International Landscape Design Contest

(August 2020) HARRISBURG, PA - The Association of Professional Landscape Designers (APLD) recently released the award winners of its annual international landscape design competition. Categories included Small Gardens, Show Gardens, Commercial and Residential Landscapes (under and above $100,000).

Donald Pell of Donald Pell Gardens, Phoenixville, Pennsylvania won a gold award for his project called, “Kempton, PA Garden” in the Planting Design category.

The garden, located in Kempton, Pennsylvania, received high marks from the judges for its beautiful plantings with wonderful sweeps of color and nice blending of plant materials. One judge noted the. “This is beautiful. It is abundant and fresh and exactly the way we should all strive to be planting.” Another judge concurred, adding that the garden was well executed and implemented. “The use of native plants provides a timely and individual approach to current planting design.”

(Feel free to insert more information about plants used, the challenges of the site and other project details here and be sure to attach a few of your winning pictures to the email when you send it to the press.)

More information on the contest or APLD is available by contacting Michelle Keyser at 717.717-238-9780, communications@apld.org or by visiting apld.org.
